This document is made pursuant to the Appointment of Conjoint Academic Staff procedure

SCHEDULE A

LEVELS OF APPOINTMENT OF CONJOINT ACADEMIC STAFF

Conjoint Professor

This title is awarded when the person is recognised as a leading national or international authority, with a demonstrated track record in a designated area relevant to the University's interests, and where the person is able to provide leadership in this area on behalf of the University. The proposed level of appointment is commensurate with that of a Level E academic staff member.

Conjoint Associate Professor

This title is awarded when the person is recognised as a significant authority, with a demonstrated track record in a designated area relevant to the University's interests, and where the person is able to provide leadership in this area on behalf of the University. The proposed level of appointment is commensurate with that of a Level D academic staff member.

Conjoint Senior Lecturer

This title is awarded when the person is recognised as a respected contributor in a designated area relevant to the University's interests, and where the person is able to participate effectively in this area on behalf of the University. The proposed level of appointment is commensurate with that of a Level C academic staff member, although level of achievement in a profession may be an important consideration, as well as achievements in teaching and research.

Conjoint Lecturer

This title is awarded when the person is recognised as a respected contributor in a designated area relevant to the University's interests, and where the person is able to participate effectively in this area on behalf of the University. The proposed level of appointment is commensurate with that of a Level B academic staff member, although level of achievement in a profession may be an important consideration, as well as achievements in teaching and research.

Conjoint Associate Lecturer

This title is awarded when the person is a valued but junior contributor in a designated area relevant to the University's interests. The proposed level of appointment is commensurate with that of a Level A academic staff member, although level of achievement in a profession may be an important consideration, as well as achievements in teaching and research.
